Fear for his ill wife, not for himself, was contained in a deft to Red agitators today by Judge Albert P. Hayden, whose home at 11 Wayne st., Roxbury, has been ordered under 24-hour police guard until after May 1.

The deft followed an attempt at a Red demonstration that was halted by police near his Hayden home last night.

When he reached Roxbury court, however, he made a survey of the premises with Const. Officers John J. Duffy and John H. Long and ordered Constable Joseph Gould to keep a close watch at night.

His home was bombed in May 1929 by five agitators to terms ranging from three months to a year for activities in the garment strike.

The Morgan Plan of First Aid to the Indigent

MR. John Plunderbund Morgan has gone philanthropist in a big Wall Street way.

He makes over the radio the comforting suggestion that the public help each other by assessing each other and that thus the needy care for the more needy and ALL the needy be happy and NEEDY together,—without disturbing Wall Street.

The J. Plunderbund Morgan plan (let no one deprive him of the credit of the proposal) would be a little more popular and a little more practicable if all the public (more needy and less needy combined) had not been so thoroughly robbed by the international bankers and the speculative promoters and so completely deprived of this glorious opportunity to help themselves or each other or anybody else.

It seems probable in the light of piratical history that this idea of mutual aid for the indigent and unfortunate did not entirely originate in the mind of the present representative of the Morgan family, but first budded in the brain of an earlier Morgan who used to cruise the Caribbean in his private yacht and who after he had captured and gutted a peaceful merchantman and painstakingly robbed its passengers was accustomed to make his captives walk the plank and to advise the stronger swimmers to take care of the weaker swimmers so that they might all drown together without inconveniencing anybody on the pirate craft.

It never seemed to occur to either representative of the Morgan strain that the distress of the plundered victims could best be relieved by restoring to them some of the wealth and well-being of which they had been deprived whether by pirates or promoters or ruthless speculators or international confidence men.

YET to those innocent and unacquainted with the immoral codes of the Captain Kidds of industry it would appear that a natural and appropriate way of relieving the general financial distress at this

BULLETIN

Trenton, N. J., March 25 (INS)—Col. H. N. Norman Schwarzkopf of the state police, said today that his men were seeking, in addition to Harry Fleischer, reputed member of the Purple Gang of Detroit and Abbie Wagner, minor character in the New York underworld, and both "known kidnappers," another man whose identity he would not reveal—and that they were "hot on the trail."

Copyright, 1932, International News Service

New York, March 25 (INS)—Harry Fleischer, reputed leader of "The Purple Gang" of Detroit, who is being hunted by the authorities in connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping mystery, was positively identified from a photograph today as one of the three men seen aboard the cabin cruiser in which was a crying baby, on the day after the abduction.

The cruiser was plowing aimlessly 30 miles off Scotland Light, five miles off Sandy Hook.

BABY CRIES LOUDLY

The identification was made in the office of International News Service by a rum runner who had brought his own craft up close to the cabin cruiser which had hailed him. One of the men aboard the cruiser said they had broken their compass and offered $100 for the rum runner's compass.

A baby, inside the cabin, cried loudly at the spokesman.

BANDIT HOPPING IS DYING

Writhing in pain "after an emergency operation, Joseph Hopping, alias Lawrence, hung himself out of bed at City Hospital today, even as he was reported by doctors to be dying.

Hopping was captured Tuesday night when a bullet killed him at the same time Frank "Human" Elmore met death in a Back Bay hand chase.

After an emergency operation performed when infection set in, he was doggedly refused to talk to Homeless Inspector Harry Plumer and Police Sinecruiser William Shanahan.

Returning from the operation near the bullet wound in the groin, Hopping was settled into a poly arrangement with the injured leg extended by a 40-pound weight. Apparently in great pain, he gave a sudden lurch and precipitated himself upon the floor. His name is on the danger list.

Minister Says Again "Baby Back Soon"

Hopewell, N. J., March 25—Tidewater Virginia's ragged coast was today the focal point for the nationwide and thus far tragically fruitless search for the kidnapped 21-month-old son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Three Norfolk men, an admiral, a minister and a business man, were known to be engaged in an effort to accomplish the safe return of the famous infant.

Optimism that the baby, reported to be safe, soon would be recovered was expressed by Denis Dobson Peacock, the minister in the trio which claims to have been negotiating with the kidnappers.

Despite official announcement from the Lindbergh home that Col. Lindbergh did not consider information about his kidnapped baby furnished by the three Virginians important, Rev. Dobson Peacock insisted again today that the early return of the baby was expected.

"We not only hope but expect the completion of negotiations within a few days," Dean Dobson Peacock said today.

Held by 4 Men, 2 Women

The Norfolk Leader-Dispatch today said a communication signed "usually by Col. Lindbergh at his Strand Mountain estate in New Jersey Wednesday is understood to be the authority for the three Norfolk men to serve as intermediaries.

The paper said well authenticated reports were that the baby is guarded by a party of six persons, two of whom are said to be women, on a boat, "within 30 miles of Norfolk."

That there is some connection, the paper continued, between the Lindbergh kidnaping and a rum running syndicate, of former operator in Connecticut, later, it is indicated by the reported meeting of two go-betweens who first approached the three Norfolk men.

Acting for Lindbergh

They visited Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Tuesday in secret, and are understood to have told him an intermediary approached them, asked them the father's kidnapping was safe, and would be restored on payment of $200,000.

Lindbergh was reported to have authorized them to act as his emissaries.

John Hughes Curtis, business man in the negotiating firm, said today he would neither deny nor confirm a report that Col. Lindbergh had signed a note assuring the kidnapers that the interveners acted with authority.

"I'll not deny nor affirm that," Mr. Curtis said. "That is the only way I can answer that question."

Mr. Curtis declined to comment further regarding the state of the negotiations.

Minister Is Positive

Dean Dobson Peacock in his statement today expressed fear that publicity given the new phase in the famous case might jeopardize "a good deal" but reiterated his belief that all will work out satisfactorily.

"We had hoped for an early and happy solution," he said, "and such is still our hope."

Dean Dobson Peacock pointed out that he had never expressed the belief that the kidnappers would return the baby to the United States.

"What I said on those occasions certainly was heard on the Eastern Shore and as far north as Baltimore," he added.

He would not comment to further questioning along this line.

Charges Leak to Police

Dean Dobson Peacock denied the kidnaped baby was with the go-between during the negotiations with the three Norfolk men.

"That's all wrong," he asserted. "Ask yourself what I have said in the past."

Dean Dobson Peacock would not say whether a recent report had been received concerning the safety of the baby.

He added he was puzzled as to the manner in which the information became public. He said he had been contacted by a man who offered to take the baby to Norfolk, and he said, but apparently became known to Hopewell and Norfolk police.

Police officials were skeptical of the value of statements by the Norfolk pastor that he and two others were in communication with the kidnapers and authorized to represent Col. Lindbergh in paying the ransom for the child.

Police said that while he himself had signed last week's bulletin dealing with the Norfolk angle the words used were those of Lindbergh. That statement was phrased as follows:

"The three citizens of Norfolk, Va., who visited the Lindbergh home last night gave this information which on being checked was found to have no specific significance in this investigation," an official bulletin said.

It was issued by H. Norman Schwarzsopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police.

Lindbergh Is Dubious

When International News Service asked Col. Schwarzsopf this morning what Col. Lindbergh thought of the new development at Norfolk, he replied:

"Col. Lindbergh said to me that the information from Norfolk was of no value."

Schwarzsopf said that while he himself had signed last week's bulletin dealing with the Norfolk angle the words used were those of Lindbergh. That statement was phrased as follows:

"The three citizens of Norfolk who visited Col. Lindbergh last night gave him information which, on being investigated, was found to have no specific significance in this investigation."

It was a direct quotation from Col. Lindbergh's newspaper, Hopewell, where he is quartered.

largely incorrect. We have given no interviews and made no statements. We have made the same reply to all inquiries, which was that we had nothing to say."

Police in Norfolk consider the trail a hot one—no one they are leaving matters alone entirely in the hands of the trio who visited the Lindberghs Tuesday night in the hope that something may come of it. They are keeping their eyes peeled for suspicious characters, and an unofficial combing of the coast about Norfolk is under way, but officially the line is clear for the kidnapers to negotiate as they see fit.

Authorities are reluctant to discuss the matter at all for fear of "leaking off" the intermediaries or the kidnapers if they are here and have made overtures to Curtis and his associates.

"Baby Alive and Well"

According to the story in Norfolk, which went unmentioned and unconfirmed, a man purporting to be an agent of the kidnapers approached Curtis about two weeks ago with a proposal for return of the baby for ransom. He told Curtis, the story goes, that Charles Lindbergh, Jr., was alive and well and that he wished Curtis to arrange for its return. He is understood to have specified that the actual exchange of ransom was to be handled by a minister.

Curtis called the Rev. Dobson Peacock and Admiral Burgess, and the trio continued their negotiations. It is understood that the Rev. Peacock, Col. Lindbergh were strictly confidential and whatever he made said to him, it should come from Curtis and Charles Lindbergh.

"Moreover, statements and interviews attributed to any of us, which have been re-issued to us as being caused by the newspaper, are entirely unauthorized and untrue," the trio said.

Providence of the men concerned here left no doubt of their sincerity. Whether credence is to be given the report concerning negotiations was considered a matter of little importance to the trio, who were not interested in the authenticity of the story.

State police were sent to several cruiser was talking with the rum runner. The infant's cries threw "I" spoken into the greatest excitement, and, stunning down the hatch so the baby could not be seen, he ordered the rum runner to "show off—and keep it."

Not only did the rum runner identify Fleischer but he also picked out from the photographs another man whom Col. H. Norman Schwarzsopf, head of the New Jersey state police, is also seeking for questioning in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. This other man was seen on a coast-guard schooner an hour before the rum runner came in on the coast-guard cutter, which contained the baby and the three men.

This information dovetails significantly with the latest police clue—namely, that the baby is aboard a boat somewhere in Chesapeake Bay near Norfolk, Va., in the hands of kidnapers who are reported to be willing to turn the infant over to representatives of Charles Lindbergh.

BE IS POSITIVE

"I am 100 per cent positive of the identification of both men," said the detective. "I have seen them before. Before he was shown the photographs, I was told that he was absolutely sure."

The information was made the identifications from the pictures picked out that the rum runner was leading almost from Hopewell, N. J., the Lindbergh home, to the Highlands, N. J., which highway is seldom traveled, except by boats, was riding high on the water looking for a certain schooner. I could find it."

RUM RUNNER'S STORY

"I had no idea the baby had been kidnapped when I heard the story on the ocean. You see, my job is contacting rum running schooners and directing them to ports."

"I had left the shores of New Jersey at four in the morning on March 11, I had read any newspapers, and didn't know about the kidnaping the night before."

"I was out there on the water looking for a certain schooner. I could find it."

"I did not run a three-masted ocean going schooner. I got up a huller, but I had the supercargo and back to me. He was this man."

The informer then identified the picture of the man whom the New Jersey police are seeking and directing them to ports as "a known kidnaping."

"I asked him if he had any liquor aboard and he said, 'No, but I could not help but believe him because his boat was riding high on the water, indicating he had no cargo. He did seem friendly and I pulled away."

IN A CABIN CRUISER

The rum runner continued as follows:

"I cruised around for an hour or more. I finally decided to go back to shore. About 25 miles off the coast of Maryland I saw a cabin cruiser—one of those 30-foot motor launches with white trimmings."

"When I got about a quarter of a mile from the shore, I saw three men on the deck. One of them was waving a red flag. I was not on the alert for suspicious characters, as was patrolmen along the waterfront."

Harbor in Baltimore

March 25 (AP)—Police Commissioner Charles D. Gallagher today issued orders that the ship moving in and out of Baltimore Harbor should be searched for the Lindbergh baby.

The order was issued after the police had reported that the baby was in the Chesapeake Bay.

Indeed, if the public had any money left it seems more than likely in view of past experiences that our international bunks and domestic green goods men would be able to find better uses for it than having it wasted on charity—at least as long as the shell game and the stock market endure.

any unnecessary chance, so I circled around for awhile.

"Deciding that these people were really in trouble and it was no trap, I drew up alongside."

"There were three men on the deck. One of them was waving a red flag. I was not on the alert for suspicious characters, as was patrolmen along the waterfront."

"One of the other two fellows was waving a red flag. I was not on the alert for suspicious characters, as was patrolmen along the waterfront."

"I am sure certain about this identification," he said. "I was only 98 per cent certain I would not make the identification."

HEARS BABY'S CRY

"This man (Fleischer) stood back there with his companion and did none of the talking," the rum runner rumbled.

"When I drew up alongside of those fellows I asked: 'What is wrong?' The dark fellow who did all the talking said: 'Our compass is broken. Will you sell us your compass?' I told them I would sell them my compass but that if they wanted me to I would board their boat and try and fix their compass."

"The swarthy fellow said, 'No, don't come aboard.' With that he drew out a roll of bills and offered me a $100 bill. I said, 'I will take it if I can't sell the compass because I need it myself and don't want to get lost on the ocean.'"

"Suddenly I heard a baby's cry from the cabin. Three times in quick succession the baby cried. 'No longer had the first cry come than I heard the baby cry. I was in the act of taking the cabin and pulled out the sliding door and slammed the door. He was greatly excited, and so were the other two."

"I was a police trooper, the fellow who was doing all the talking, said. 'Get away from here you and be quick about it. I know he meant business and was about to shoot at me without any warning.'"

"They were angry, I'm sure, because I tried to look through the cabin door. I saw a baby in the first time. The port hole was closed. I saw a baby in the cabin blocking the view of the interior of the cabin."

"The whole thing mystified me a little at the time. It was about 1:30 in the afternoon. I got back to New Jersey at 8 o'clock that night. When I told the newspapers I immediately struck me the baby in the cabin might have been the Lindbergh baby."

Caruso's Widow Reinstated as Guardian of Child

New York, March 25—Mrs. Dorothy P. N. Caruso Ingram, widow of the famous tenor, was reinstated by Surrogate Foley as general guardian of her daughter, Gloria, 12.

Foley removed Mrs. Ingram from her position of guardian of Gloria, after a petition of Warren, a New York attorney, was filed.

Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Ingram is a countess of the properties left to the child by her father for the year 1929.

In her answer the mother stated she and her child were residents of Cannes, France, and that the child owned no property in the United States.

Rube Danilek and Ben Lyon, movie stars, with their baby. Mr. and Mrs. Lyon received kidnapping threats while in Washington recently, but a trap set for the perpetrator failed to apprehend him. A note demanded cash under threat to kidnap the child.

BEN LYONS'S CHILD MENACED
Washington, March 25 (AP)—A kidnap scare swept the capital today after police disclosed that extortion notes, accompanied by threats, had been received by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Sir Wilfrid Lewis, London Times correspondent, Ben Lyon, of the movies, and others.

Police predicted an early arrest. They were working on the theory that one man was responsible for several. If not all of the threats, which involved promise of kidnapping Sir Wilfrid's young son unless $1500 were paid.

A police guard was placed at his home, and detectives also are watching Mrs. Longworth's residence, which was paid $1500, but Paulina, her seven-year-old daughter, was not threatened directly.

The Lewis case bothered police most as threats have been direct and to the point. They included two letters and a telephone call.

In the case of Ben Lyon, a note demanding $500 and threatening the safety of his child was received by him recently while at a local hotel with his wife, Rube Danilek. The child was in California. The letter was signed A. A. Carpenter, and requested an answer in care of general delivery. A trap at the postoffice failed to catch anyone, however.

Prisoners Freed by De Valera to Be Speakers at Many Mass Meetings

Dublin, March 25 (INS)—In more than 100 cities and towns throughout 26 counties Irish Republicans have arranged elaborate parades, memorial services, and mass meetings for Sunday in commemoration of the 16th anniversary of the Easter rebellion, when the British executed 16 Republicans.

Approximately 15,000 members of the Irish Republican army will be on parade, and while it has been denied they will bear arms, the Irish Free State police have taken extraordinary precautions to counteract expected trouble.

The seriousness of the situation was acknowledged by one high government official in the following statement to International News Service:

LOOK OF LIFE FEARED
As much as I regret it, clashes will occur, and probably with loss of life. We can only hope to keep them down to a minimum.

Impressive services have been arranged for commemorations throughout the country where Irish Republican patriots lie buried.

More than 30,000 demonstrators are expected to assemble at noon Sunday at Stephen's Green in Dublin and march to Glasnevin Cemetery, where there are buried many of those killed in the Easter rebellion of 1916.

From there they will march to Ashbur Hill Prison Cemetery, which will be opened to the public for the first time. There lie the 16 executed martyrs.

EX-PRISONERS TO SPEAK

Mass meetings have been scheduled for practically every night. Among the most prominent speakers will be those radicals released from prison by the first official act of Eamon De Valera, new president of the Irish executive government. These men were imprisoned during the regime of William T. Cosgrave as President.

All are rabid members of the Irish Republican army, the Sinn Féin, and other extremist organizations, while the majority will denounce Great Britain and Cosgrave's party.

Some of the alleged independence are violently anti-Catholic.

Conservative groups are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to issue a counter-campaign to "free the nation from domination of Catholic hierarchy," a campaign which inevitably will lead to trouble if it was held.

DISAPPROVED BY CHURCH

For this reason the Catholic Church of Ireland is said to be viewing certain of the Easter day preparations with disfavor and some perturbation.

Meanwhile the government drafted its reply to the British note warning Ireland against abolition of its oath of allegiance to the crown. De Valera announced last night after a special two-hour meeting of the Executive Council, that no government statement would be made at present either on the text of the British note or on the Free State's stand.

No action along either of these lines was expected immediately, and possibly not before Tuesday. It was reported De Valera planned to proceed cautiously.

POLE PROBE 'CARBON' DEATH

Slumped in an automobile in a Roxbury garage, the body of Joseph E. Wallace, 28, of Centre st., Dorchester, was found today.

Wallace had apparently died from the effects of carbon monoxide gas, but three police inspectors were dispatched to the garage at 261 Quincy st.

He was found by Jacob Feinman of 100 Magnolia st., who rents the garage alongside that in which the body was found.

One of the puzzles to police was the report of Feinman that the door of the garage was open. Feinman also said he felt no ill-effects from the fumes when he entered the garage. He was first alerted by a young man who came from the front seat of the car.

Police who examined the car said the ignition switch was turned on and the motor had apparently been running.

BACK BAY CRASH [Wreckage of Sedan and Truck All Tangled Up] TWO INJURED

An aged man and his young nephew were badly hurt when these two vehicles came together early today in Commonwealth ave., near Exeter st., Back Bay. Police say the sedan hit the truck and then careened off into the tree. The truck, owned by a dairy firm, had a cargo of milk, butter and eggs, which was plentifully sprinkled on the pavement after the truck overturned. The driver escaped with a shaking up. The driver of the sedan is in serious condition. (Staff photo.)

BACK BAY CRASH INJURES TWO

A Natick man and his small nephew were badly injured today when the sedan in which they were riding was in collision with a milk truck at Commonwealth ave. and Exeter st., Back Bay. The truck, owned by the name of the man, Sumner P. Anis, 72, of 18 Oakland st., was placed on the danger list where the name of the man, Sumner P. Anis, 72, of 18 Oakland st., was placed on the danger list.

He suffered several fractured ribs, cuts on the head and face and numerous bruises.

His nephew Donald Anis, 2, of Arlington, N. J., has cuts of the head and face, numerous bruises and possible internal injuries.

Police say that Anis car, traveling along Commonwealth ave., struck the truck and careened off into a tree.

The truck, owned by Frank L. Thorpe of Harrington st., Watertown, was turned on its side in the crash and milk and eggs spilled into the street. Thorpe escaped injury, although shaken up.

Solemn Good Friday Rites in Churches Everywhere

In Catholic and Protestant churches alike, impressive services took place throughout Greater Boston and the nation today, the most solemn day in the Christian church calendar.

Tonight will be observed with additional services in the churches, and in between, for the shut-ins, will be Good Friday services by radio, with noted choristers featured.

In the Catholic churches, the mass of the premisses will be the only mass celebrated today, the one day in the year when the Host is not consecrated at the mass.

At services Holy Thursday, the Host was consecrated and placed in a repository away from the main altar, and today's solemn procession in returning the Host to the altar featured the morning service.

Eastman Man Held in New York Holdup

New York, March 25 (AP)—Ten men were held for the grand jury in $2500 bail each today in Harlem court on a charge that they robbed David Ashman of $23 and a watch last night in his haberdashery. The prisoners described themselves as George Harris, 24, of Eastham, Mass., and Jean St. Cyr, 26, of Camden, N. J.

IT'S A 'CANNON' HE PACKS!

The youth under arrest is Arne R. Sander, 21, of Cottage st., Hyde Park. He is alleged to have walked into the store at 112 Babson st., Mattapan, and produced his improvised, all-metal gun, twice as large as the ordinary large caliber revolver.

He ordered Patrick Dundee, the manager, to "stick 'em up" and Dundee, who thought the store might be blown up if the gun were fired, complied.

The holdup ran with the gun in his hand and Regt. Patrick Flaherty gave chase. He was joined by Patrolman John Gavin, who fired three shots. Sander was captured at Cummings highway and Regent rd.

He is the first home-made revolver ever seized by Boston police. Sander had no bullets and will be charged with robbery with an improvised weapon.

'Jakey' Maker Faces Sentence in Kansas

Winch, Kan., March 25 (INS)—Convicted on two counts of sale of milk and butter of James J. Ginder, Abraham, Mich., New York president of the Interstate Drug Company, faced sentence in federal court here today.

THOUSANDS ON KNEES ASCEND HOLY STAIRS

Crowds Pay Visits of Adoration to Relics of the Passion and the Death of Christ

Rome, March 25 (AP)—At the altars of Rome's numerous churches, priests today commemorated Good Friday, the anniversary of the death of Christ.

Processions of the faithful went this morning to the churches of St. Peter's, St. John's, and Holy Cross, where relics of Christ's Passion and death were on display.

Thousands crowded the holy stairs, next to St. John Lateran Church. These they believed were the stairs Christ ascended in Pontius Pilate's house after he had been crowned with thorns. Tradition has it that St. Helena, mother of the first Christian Emperor, Rome, Constantine, brought them to Rome from Jerusalem.

WOMAN SUES FOR $25,000

Propped in a wheel chair, Mrs. Stella Whitcomb of 116 P. st., South Boston, appeared before Judge McLaughlin today in Federal court today as plaintiff against the Boston Elevated in her suit for $25,000 damages for injuries claimed while a passenger on a Commonwealth ave. car, Oct. 16, 1929.

ZBYSKO'S WIFE TESTIFIES HERE

Mrs. Anna Zbysko, wife of Stanislaw Zbysko, New York wrestler, was a government witness against Samuel Arslanian, Watertown contractor, charged with perjury, before Judge James A. Lowell and a jury in Federal court today.

She testified she was at Old Orchard, Me., on May 21 and 22 last, when Arslanian was supervising the building of five cottages, and that the work was being done by another man.

"I cannot say Arslanian did anything while I was there," she said.

The testimony was to determine if Arslanian worked himself, or hired a man and paid him out of money received from a mortgage.

Arslanian some time ago filed a petition for bankruptcy, listing liabilities of $54,000 and no assets. The perjury charge grew out of disposition of a second mortgage for $5000 on the Old Orchard property.

GREETING FROM BISHOP

DIOCESAN HOUSE 1, JOY STREET BOSTON

"Christ is risen." That message changed towards into heroes, faltering men and women into glad bearers of the good news. That is what Easter means, "Peace, Courage, Faith, Joy."

Are you discouraged, are you tempted, do you wonder whether life is worth while? Be of good cheer. The victory is won. It is true: "Christ is Risen."

HOUSE PROAR FOLLOWS BEER TAX RULING

Washington, March 25.—The proposal of Rep. Cullen (D.) of New York, to place a tax on 2 1/2 per cent beer as a part of the $1,000,000 tax bill, was held to be in order today by Rep. Bankhead (D.) of Alabama, presiding in the House as in the committee of the whole.

An uproar followed Bankhead's ruling and the sergeant-at-arms had to clear the aisles. The galleries were crowded, women predominating there.

When the dry members did not assent from Bankhead's ruling a vote on the beer amendment was secured, and was set for 3:15 p. m. The Cullen amendment, supported by the House "wet" bloc in effect legalizes 2 1/2 per cent beer on the ground that it is non-intoxicating, prohibits its manufacture in dry states, prohibits sale except in bottles and levies a tax of three cents a pint.

FIRST SINCE VOLSTEAD VOTE
In ruling the House has the right to vote on the proposal—the first vote on legalizing of beer since the Volstead Act was adopted—Chairman Bankhead said it was not up to him in rule as to its constitutionality.

The amendment is offered for a tax on a non-intoxicating beverage," said Bankhead, himself a staunch dry. "The Supreme Court has not ruled whether beer of this alcoholic content is intoxicating. And in holding it in order I express no personal view."

Acting Chairman Clegg (D.) of Georgia of the Ways and Means Committee, while opposing the beer amendment, joined Bankhead in declaring it in order. He said he was willing to share the responsibility for any such ruling.

CHALLENGE BY BLANTON
The right of Cullen to propose the tax was challenged by Representative Blanton (D.) of Texas, unofficial dry leader.

This is a useless and futile thing, which could only cause expense to the nation," said Blanton. "If an attempt is made to carry it out it would be in clear violation of the Constitution and the Supreme Court would so hold."

"What right has the gentleman to speak for the Supreme Court?" asked Rep. Coccran (D.) of Missouri.

Why, I have been an attorney at the bar of the Supreme Court for 25 years. I know what the court will do," shouted Blanton. He assailed the amendment as comparable to one legalizing lottery and bull fights.

It would make Washington a divorce center and out-Reno Reno," he said.

Treadway Named on New Tax Committee

Washington, March 25 (AP).—The House Ways and Means committee today appointed a subcommittee to draft proposals designed to bring in about $500,000 of revenue to replace the amount stricken out of the new tax bill, yesterday when the House rejected the sales levy.

FUGITIVE MACK ON WAY BACK

Harry W. Mack, 34, of Hartford, Ct., who jumped his bail of $500 in Boston last September after being found guilty in lower court of larceny, is being brought back from Canada, according to word received today from Police Sergeant Francis McGee.

The sergeant went to Montreal Monday after a search through the Lexington Surety Company of P. M. Weston, who had resulted in finding Mack beyond the border.

Mack, who posed as a South Sea hotel as a cameraman for Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, is charged with having sold a leased automobile and also with having lived with the red-haired girl whose description resulted in his arrest in the South End.

According to police, Mack is also wanted in Hartford for larceny of $250.

Following his flight from Boston Mack is alleged to have conducted an employment agency in Windsor, Ontario, under the name of Samuel Black. After he was discovered by detectives, he fled Windsor, but was arrested on a train bound for St. John, N. B., by Department of Justice agents, working with Canadian officers.

Because Mack, a Scot, is detained in have been illegally in the United States, through his jumping ship here and because he was in Canada illegally also, considerable correspondence and cutting of "rail" time was necessary before he could be turned over to the Boston police.

Fires at Crooning Radio, Kills Girl

Chicago, March 25 (TNS).—A shooting caused by a drunken gangster's sniping for radio crooners early today brought death to 21-year-old Ethel E. Hendrix, a pretty 23-year-old divorced mother.

The gunman, Earl McDowell, police said staggered into a speaking and ordering drinks. From a loudspeaker came the crooner's song. He shipped out a revolver and fired four times at the radio crooner. One bullet struck Ethel Hendrix.

HOOVER PLEDGE TO BIG BANKERS IS REVEALED

Washington, March 25 (AP).—A statement that formation of the National Credit Corp. last October by bankers was not "voluntary," but undertaken on the assurance of President Hoover that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be formed to take over its work was made today by Percy H. Johnston, president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Co. of New York.

The statement was made during hearings before the Senate banking committee on the Glass banking revision bill, when Senator Glass (D., Virginia), recalled the contribution of leading banks to the National Credit Corporation fund to aid smaller banks "voluntarily."

HOOVER GAVE PLEDGE
Johnston, who opposed the Glass bill, replied he would not describe the action as voluntary.

"It was in that conference at Secretary Mellon's home," he added.

"President Hoover told us he had talked to leaders in Congress and as soon as Congress met it would form the reconstruction corporation to take us out of this position."

"Then you didn't do it voluntarily," asked Senator Glass.

"We were asked to do it on that basis as a quick stop-gap and we did it," Johnston replied. "Earlier in opposing the Glass bill he said its passage now would 'destroy all effect of the remedial measures looking in an end of deflation."

Johnston protested against setting up some super-bureaucracy in Washington to tell the directors, elected by the stockholders of a bank how to run their business."

"We elected certain officers with a certain amount of authority in connection with the 18th Amendment and I'm sorry to say I don't think it's been very effective," he said.

"You know," he remarked, "we Americans are an independent people. We don't like to be told we have to do things."

The leaders of the country Johnston said are men of integrity not carried over by the "pool."

SENIOR CLASS AT DARTMOUTH FOR REPEAL

Hanover, N. H., March 25 (TNS).—Whimsical fancies of Dartmouth students were revealed today by publication of the preferences of the senior class of 1932.

Lack of girls in this town was considered the greatest regret, but the class decided artificial ice for the indoor hockey rink was the greatest need of the college.

Girls were voted the favorite topic of conversation with the Landwehr baby in second place.

3 NEVER KISSED
Twenty-nine seniors admitted they had never been kissed by a girl and 132 declared they would willingly marry for money while still that number said an fortune would ever tempt them.

Smokers far outnumbered those who do not care for tobacco. Two hundred declared they drank and favored repeal of the law. Beer was voted the favorite drink with milk following.

Yale was declared Dartmouth's nearest rival and also the favorite college after Dartmouth. Smith is the favorite women's college.

THEY LIKE MARINE
Galloway is the favorite genre author, Browning the favorite poet and Marjorie Dietrich the favorite movie actress of the class.

William H. Murray of New Rochelle, N. Y., America's only tarback and hockey captain a voted the man doing most for Dartmouth and also the most versa tile man in the class.

Howard H. Sargent, of New Bedford, Mass., won the votes as the most most likely to succeed in the most respected and most intellectual member of the class. He is manager of the baseball team and has been selected as a Rhodes scholar.

Robert C. Wilkin of Salt Lake City, Utah, president of the class and star footballer, is named as the most popular and handsome student.

A number of public requests are made in the will of Dr. William Appleton, died at 21 Boston St. To the Fatherless, the Episcopal City Mission and the endorsement fund of Emmanuel Church $200 each are left, and to the Boston Home for Incubable in Dorchester, the Children's Hospital and the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, $1000 each is left.

CRUELTY STORY WINS ARTIST'S WIFE DIVORCE

Recorded over a chair so that he had struck a refrigerator and other tales of cruelty won a divorce today for Mrs. Mildred S. Crombie of Weymouth, noted architect and artist.

Appearing before Judge George J. Poland in Suffolk Probate Court, Mrs. Crombie related a tale of marital woe.

"After a New Year's party, on Jan. 1, 1931, I was standing in the living room," she said, "where my husband came in and said he wanted another drink."

"I begged him not to take it, and he struck me. My gown was long, and I tripped and fell."

"Shortly before Easter I was in the kitchen, and my husband lay my head against the refrigerator, and I passed out."

Poodle With Watchdog Habit Wins Delay for Owner

It may be all right for a Chinese poodle to imagine that it's a watchdog, but it isn't all right for the dog to be so self-important.

At least Mrs. Josephine Anzietti, of Salem St., North End, found that to be the case when she appeared before Judge Zottoli in court today.

Mrs. Anzietti, charged with having an unlicensed dog.

Robert Collins, championed the dog, and said it was the direct result of Mrs. Anzietti obtaining time to get a license.

The trouble started, the officer told the court, when a man rapped at Mrs. Anzietti's apartment door and discovered he had the wrong apartment.

"Fido," the poodle, came to the defense of his mistress and the house, and bit the man."

"Your honor," said Collins, "this dog is only a little bit of a thing, and looks like a piece of

HIGH BANGCROFT BACKS HARVARD

Hugh Bangcroft, editor of the Wall Street Journal, and graduate of Harvard in 1904, came strongly to the defense of the alma mater in an answer to Dr. Abraham Flexner, who criticized Harvard Business school in a magazine article.

"The Flexner seems to think Harvard a poisonous influence on American life because it has a Graduate School of Business Administration which is successful in accomplishing the purpose for which it was founded," Bangcroft said.

"His charge really amounts to this: that the business school retards some of the best young brains in the country and teaches them things which are of no value when they come to earn a living."

"If Dr. Flexner is right, how can we avoid the conclusion that for more than 100 years Harvard has been 'poisoning American civilization'?"

Battles for $25,000 for His Lost Nose

Detroit, March 23 (INS)—Mike Mazowsky values his lost nose at $25,000. But he isn't going to entertain a lawsuit to get it back.

When Mrs. Rose Plak, a rooming house keeper, who he alleges cut off his nose while he was asleep, failed to appear today, Judge Webster assailed the conviction of Mrs. Plak on a mayhem charge. She claimed Mazowsky came home drunk, flourishing a razor. She said she was asleep and accidentally when she tried to take the razor from him.

Payless Pay Day for Brockton Teachers

Brockton, March 23 (INS)—Friday proved to be a payless pay day for the school teachers here today when City Treasurer Calvin Barrett reported the closing of the stock exchange made it impossible to get cash.

The payroll totals $38,000 and will be paid to the teachers for a two week period.

Youthful Elopers Found in New Jersey

Springfield, March 23 (AP)—James F. Ashley, 18-year-old messenger boy, and his sweetheart, Gladys Fleming, 16, who disappeared from here March 10, were found today in the home of relatives of the youth in Jersey City, N. J.

They have not yet been married and preparations are being made to bring them home.

2-Alarm Blaze in Factory

Proctor, March 23.—Two alarms were sounded for fire in the Textile Overhaul factory on Columbus st., which caused $20,000 loss late last night.

LABORATORY YIELDS NEW FACTS ON KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Its "Bulk" and Vitamin B Help Relieve Constipation; Also Has Blood-building Iron

New laboratory experiments demonstrate that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has sufficient "bulk" to exercise the intestines, as well as Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Now you can overcome constipation by this pleasant "cereal way," and banish the headaches, backaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result from constipation.

Special processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not haphazard. Equals bran as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. All grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CONFESSION OF BOSQUET READ

New Bedford, March 23 (AP)—A written confession signed by Richard G. Bosquet of Norton, admitting he killed Patrolman Edward E. Golia and wounded Patrolman Lawrence H. Johnson of Attleboro, was admitted as evidence in Superior Court today.

Bosquet is on trial charged with murder.

The shooting occurred after he had been arrested as a "peeping Tom" suspect on Jan. 23. The confession was vigorously attacked by James H. Ledham, defense counsel, who charged it was not voluntary on Bosquet's part and had been signed in response to a promise by police officials.

Judge Fredrick ruled the confession was not admissible without further inquiry into the manner in which it was obtained. The jury left the room and during its absence the inquiry was made. The judge then ruled the confession admissible.

Bay State Linked in Big Police Network

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—A midnight, March 31, the State of Massachusetts will be tied into the police teletype network that now links New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Capt. Albert B. Moore, state police inspector, announced the 44 municipal and state police stations in Massachusetts will "put into communication with the 75 stations in New York State outside of New York city, the four in New Jersey and 108 in Pennsylvania."

PARTY PEACE UP TO CHAIRMAN DONAHUE

By BERNARD J. DOWNEY

Up to 5 p. m. today, the time limit for filing withdrawals at the office of Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, the compromise offer from the Roosevelt group to the Smith supporters is open.

This offer calls for the inclusion of Mayor Curley on the slate and an agreement under which the Massachusetts delegation will vote for Roosevelt for second choice.

DOOR STILL OPEN

That the door still is open for the compromise is made plain by Mayor Curley, in refusing the charge made by Chairman Frank J. Donahue of the state committee that none of the Roosevelt spokesmen had made any concrete proposition as a basis for an agreement.

The mayor, after restating his own efforts to bring about party harmony, with particular reference to his conference with Senator Walsh on March 5, said:

"That proposal as far as I am aware still holds, and if the owner of the Democracy and the deliverer of all of the people of the Commonwealth (Donahue) is still desirous of party unity in November, there is time until 5 p. m. Friday, to complete negotiations by communicating with the chairman of the committee, Mr. James Roosevelt, at room 45, Park Square Bldg., Boston, telephone Hancock 8100."

James Roosevelt, son of the New York governor, in a supplementary statement, takes sharp issue with the statement made by Donahue that at no time had the younger Roosevelt "ever asked for a conference with me in regard to any compromise."

CONTRARY TO RECORD

"I regret that I am forced to say that every single alleged statement of fact in Mr. Donahue's statement is contrary to the record," the holder of the Roosevelt power of attorney declared.

"As one example, I call attention to a telegram which I personally sent Mr. Donahue last Saturday night and in which I was not even accorded the courtesy of an acknowledgment."

The gist of the message, as given out by the son of the New York governor, was a request for a conference the following Sunday forenoon.

Added testimony to the efforts of the Roosevelt backers to bring about harmony was given by AID LAFITE Brown of Boston.

"I do not wish to add complications to what seems to me a most unfortunate and unnecessary situation by entering into any controversy with Mr. Donahue," said Brown.

REDS MUST PASS THEM TO REACH JUDGE

"I think, however, that it is only fair to Governor Roosevelt to say that Mr. Robert Jackson and I submitted certain proposals with Mr. Roosevelt's full authority and that these proposals were so concrete that they were required by me to writing.

SUBSTITUTIONS PLANNED

"They did not contain a demand that Roosevelt be declared to be the second choice of the South delegation. The discussions were supposed to be confidential and I do not feel warranted in going into further details."

Several substitutions will be made on the Roosevelt ticket today. Prime Publisher of Zerkine, nominator of L'Union Saint Jean Baptiste d'Amérique, it is understood, will be placed on the delegation.

large slate to fill the vacancy caused by J. Joseph Flannery, instead of Col. Peter Guthrie, originally picked to succeed Flannery. Arthur W. Heide of Boston, it is said, will also be given a place. Phoebe L. Slader last year,

MANCHURIA TO HAVE ITS OWN 'OPEN DOOR'

Changchun, Manchuria, March 5 (AP)—The correspondent of the Rengo News Agency reported today that Japanese airplanes which left Tancheng this morning bombed Tongking Cheng, thirty miles south of Hailin. Japanese troops were reported to enter Tongking Cheng tonight.

Changchun, Manchuria, March 23 (INS)—The new independent Manchurian government from now on will take into its own hands execution of the "open door" policy in Manchuria, and will revise that doctrine to fit "present conditions."

This was revealed in International News Service today in the first interview given an American correspondent by Shun Chien-shih, foreign minister of the Japanese-inspired state.

"It is true that until now the meaning of the 'open door' policy has been decided among foreign nations themselves," Shieh said, "but with the creation of Manchuria as a separate country it becomes our right to give our own definition and interpretation of this policy."

The United States, which led in the drawing up of the "open door" policy in China and has since been one of its chief defenders, is commercially and historically in close contact with Manchuria, the new foreign minister said, although the two countries are far apart.

DIVORCES WIFE WHO MENAGED HIM WITH GUN

Special Officer Herbert H. Hawkins of 1358 Commonwealth ave. attached to Station 14, faced death at the hands of his wife when she leveled a revolver at him, he testified today in Suffolk Probate court where he won a divorce from Louise Hawkins.

On several other occasions, he said, she threatened to throw vitriol in his face, and once told him she would smash his face while he slept. They were married in Amherst, N. H., July 13, 1923, and separated last September.

"In July, 1930," Hawkins testified, "when we were at my summer camp in Stoughton, my wife returned in an intoxicated condition."

"When she came into the living room, where my brother was with me, she flew into a rage, rushed to the bedroom, and came back with my revolver."

"Pointing the gun at me she said, 'I'm going to kill you.' My brother took the gun away."

"Once she went into the little room and locked the door. I smelled gas, and knocked the door down. She was sitting with her back to the gas stove, and a burner was open."

Hawkins described how his health has improved since they separated after he had suffered a year from nervousness.

"We have not passed a dozen pleasant words since we were married," he said.

QUIGLEY PUTS POLICE BACK

Mayor Lawrence Quigley today revoked an order which he had signed earlier in the week demanding 12 Chelsea policemen and removing 15 reserve officers from the reserve list.

The policemen affected by the order, represented by Atty. Edward J. Voke of Chelsea, gained a hearing on the revocation of the order last night and today Quigley signed his name repealing the original order.

The policemen who were demoted will hold their original rank but will be put on the reserve list, receiving pay only when they work. Quigley's order was instituted as an economy move.

"KICK" FROM ENEMIES
John C. Hull, director of sales of securities division of State Public Utilities Commission, got a big "kick" from some of the statements of those who opposed his bill for simplification of the "Blue Sky" law.

"I have been accused of being a tool or servant of the State Street interests when I had always supposed State Street was against me. I'm getting it both ways," he said.

WOULD AMEND LAWS

"We still have Puritanical laws on our statute books," said Senator John H. Buckle of Boston in speaking in the higher branch in favor of amending the law which makes it possible to jail a person for non-payment of real estate taxes.

OPPOSES REFERENDUM

"Get rid of some of those ducks who are certainly lame in both legs," said Senator James J. Twombly, of South Boston, while favoring ratification of the "lame duck" amendment recently passed by Congress.

He said he opposed a referendum on the ground that everybody knows 9 of 10 persons in Massachusetts favor abolition of "lame ducks."

KID EACH OTHER
Senators William F. Shanahan of Swampscott and Newland H. Holmes of Weymouth are constantly "kidding" each other in the Senate, whenever a good opportunity presents.

Senator Shanahan gave Holmes a "riding" over the imprisonment of an old man in Weymouth because of refusal to pay the $1 old age assistance tax.

SURE OF VOTES

State Senator Michael J. Ward of Roxbury announced at City Hall yesterday that he has completed plans whereby it will be possible for every Roosevelt-for-President supporter in his district to visit the polls on primary day, April 26. His entire organization, consisting of hundreds of young men, will be available on that day and automobile transportation will be furnished for every person who would be unable to vote unless assisted in that manner.

SOUTHERN VACATION

Miss "Peggy" Begley, of the city treasurer's office, sailed from New York yesterday for a brief vacation trip to Cuba, Bermuda and Nassau.

PEDONTI TO SPEAK

Frank T. Pedonti, assistant secretary in Mayor Curley's office, will be principal speaker at a special meeting of the Coimars Club of East Boston in their quarters in Maverick sq. tonight.

TO HEAD MARCH

"Charlie" Carchy, of the central office, city public works department, will lead the grand march at the ball of St. Margaret's Ursula Club in State Ballroom on April 4. He is president of the organization and one of its most active members. Mayor Curley will be among those in attendance.

Bank Post Given to W. T. A. Fitzgerald

William T. A. Fitzgerald, register of deeds, was elected today vice-president of the Cooperative Bank, succeeding William F. Desmond of New Bedford who died recently.

The Cooperative Central Bank directors also elected Judge Thomas Otis of Hyannis, president of the Hyannis Cooperative Bank, as one of the directors to fill the vacancy caused by the same death.

THIS IS LIFE

STUDENTS SHOULD LEARN TO GOVERN THEIR OWN LIVES FIRST

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

I CANNOT SAY that I can get up any enthusiasm about the sending of some 200 college students, male and female, down into the Kentucky Coal Fields, to study the existing unemployment, strike or lockout or whatever it may be. I doubt if it is a defensible or valid educational experience or whether it really is intended to be a valid educational experience.

The plan has all the earmarks of propaganda. If it were undertaken by the mine operators, we should hear a dreadful howl going from every variety and shade of radical, including the supposedly impartial sociologists, the liberal college professors and all the rest. But so long as it is fostered by the forces friendly to the striking miners, it is apparently taken for granted.

PROF. ROGERS

One-Sided Survey Certain

From the merely practical point of view, the idea looks not merely futile but dangerous. In the first place, futile. An assorted bunch of college boys and girls, off on a junket for an Easter Week vacation, are not going to take the affair any too seriously. The expedition cannot be much more than a kind of Cook's Tour, stopping to view carefully selected instances of houses and human beings that best represent the strikers' talking points. There will be mass meetings for the inculcation of mass convictions on the horrors of what the young people are seeing.

There will be no attempt to show the side of the operators, to hear their arguments, or to study the coal industry from their angle, as against the strikers' angle. The conductors of the tour are attempting to inculcate a group of students with one point of view and one only. It is an attempt to make enthusiasts out of young people who ought—God knows!—to be dispassionate observers, free from emotion, and from what our liberals persist in referring to as "ideals."

A few old fashioned people like myself are still of the opinion that in a country and an age in which emotion, hearsay, opinion, and sentimentality are largely making the important decisions, the college graduate ought to be the one class in the country that can be counted upon to keep a level head, examine facts, balance experiences, and arrive for practicable results. They should be kept from intrigues against their sympathies, assaults on their emotions, appeals to their softer side. The college which permits this is not doing its duty by its pupils. The college's job is to give them the apparatus by which to judge these things, when they are of suitable age and experience to judge them. It is not the college's business to prejudice the issue or to allow interested agencies—as in this case—to prejudice them.

Element of Danger

Furthermore, this junket has an element of real danger. The people of Kentucky are more or less worked up already, feeling that they are being subjected to unfair publicity through the visits of self-appointed investigators, who are counsel for the plaintiff, jury, judges and executioner all rolled into one. They object violently to the pretensions of New York literary people to judge conditions there. There was a lot of nasty trouble over the Dreiser committee. There may be a lot of nasty trouble over this one.

One of the sponsors of the expedition, somebody connected with an obviously radical organization, has already said publicly that there is considerably possibility of trouble. Knowing that, he and his companions have the nerve, nevertheless, to continue with their plans. If the students themselves haven't the sense to keep out of mischief—for mischief it is—one would imagine that their parents would at least hard on the proposal. Or failing the parents, the authorities of the colleges, who stand in loco parentis and who surely are experienced enough to recognize the danger as well as the uselessness of the excursion.

Our college boys and girls are being flattered by being appealed to by the liberal and radical organizations as the future saviors of the world. The amount of money, time, and energy which is being spent on propagandizing them is enormous. They are taught to assemble in mock Leagues of Nations and discuss solemnly the well being of the world. They are being sent abroad on junkets, to "represent American youth," although the proportion of American youth who they represent is infinitesimal. They are being pumped full of social and international theories which are full of potential dynamite—all this at an age when they should be devoting their energies to gaining a proper technique of weighing and criticizing these notions.

Missouri Incident Enlightening

How little they are capable, at their age, of governing themselves, is to be seen in that ghastly and comic press story from Missouri. The Law School men and the Engineering School men are in feud. The Law School men abduct a girl who is going to a dance as the guest of the Engineers. The Engineers send out a lynching party against the Law men. One of the Law men shoots up three Engineers, one of whom may die, then is disarmed and beaten so badly that his skull is fractured.

There is a sweet picture of American college life. Exceptional, perhaps, but only one more step further in the tradition of hazing, class hatred, and rough house, which is the characteristic of the American college. That Law man who abducted the girl and shot up the men hopes, undoubtedly to become a member of the bar and an officer of the court. It would probably be considered undemocratic to bar him from the opportunity to practice. And those Engineers who set out to lynch him hope to be employers of labor and handlers of men. It's a noble experiment—this business of higher education for the riff-ruff of America.

Gangsters and rough-necks on one side, baby bachelors on the other, these are the extremes of our higher education. Fortunately, the mean is still sound and sensible.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY

New Thatcher Colt Detective Mystery By Anthony Abbot

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BOSTON, FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1932

6 CHINESE HELD IN OPIUM RING CHARGE

CAPT. ANDERSON HEARS SONG OF 'SOUL-SOLOIST'

"Silver Tongue" of a "Billy" Sunday Worker Almost "Gold-Bricks" Police

Spring came today into the heart of John M. Anderson, captain of police and detective mentor of note, and under the vernal urge and the song of a silver tongue the captain nearly gave back a brick to a prisoner arrested for carrying it.

Getting back your brick from the police has suspected you of having impeccable designs on your windows is considered practically a crime in some circles and it was quite a shock indeed to his fearful detectives when Capt. Anderson finally gave the answer in a matter of this kind.

Years ago, 26, sometimes of Burlington, had who seven years ago, was acquitted of a charge of being accessory in the murder of Frederick Clements, Burlington garage proprietor, was brought to the police headquarters here by Special Officers Daniel Donohue, Michael Heffernan and George Walsh of Jay station.

He had picked up Mowbray in Bowdoin at West End, while he was carrying a brick, they said, wrapped in a newspaper.

"Capt. Anderson," said Mowbray fervently, "I am a missionary. I am trying to lead you, but you are in the righteous world where you really belong."

"No you have souls, do you?" said Capt. Anderson. "Well, save a few here. Give the boys a moral tale before they take the field."

"Gentlemen," started Mowbray, addressing the prisoners and detectives alike, "though I have been arrested on numerous occasions, I am not a crook. Look at me, my clothes are tattered, my hands rough with toil."

"Then he went on sketching his life, telling in colorful detail of his work in missions in Chicago and with Amos Metherson Smith, Providence, of working with Rudy Sunday—all to save souls."

"WOMAN IN HIS LIFE." True—said Mowbray regretfully—had intermittent encounters with the police here and there in matters of delirium, but everyone, of course, makes mistakes.

Capt. Anderson listened until Mowbray declared that just before his arrest with the brick, he had been drinking pig run with a doctor and a minister. Then the captain tottered forward with hands up.

"Sing," quoth the Rock of the City's detective chief, "if you crime here is hardly one for which you must go to jail. I have asked you to save souls here and you have saved your own. You are a soul soloist. Take him to the fingerprint room, boys, and if he is not wanted for anything here—then he has saved his soul."

"Will I give him back his brick, Captain?" asked Officer Bonavon innocently.

"Yes—I mean no," thundered the captain. "And I want every detective here to say shall and will."

Clever Work of Federal Agent Unfolds a Vast Combine to Sell Dope, Officials Say

With arraignment of six Chinese-five men and a woman—today, federal authorities asserted that a boy, 6, had been used to an alleged opium ring through the clever detective work of a Chinese-speaking agent from Washington.

The 6-year-old son of the woman defendant was used in making a delivery of 410 worth of opium, the agent testified before U. S. Commissioner Jensen.

What Has Gone Before

At 11:30 on New Year's Eve, Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady," widow of Gaylord Gifford, the cotton millionaire, is the "high-up" responsible for numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffled the police.

Lola is slain mysteriously in her apartment. Christine is later found dead. Colt orders the dust in the room analyzed. Parts of a scorpion are found. Dr. Baldwin is the next victim of mysterious death. He leaves a statement incriminating Lola.

"Lola looked me in the eye quite a few times and laughed. She demanded the scorpions and full instructions as to how to manage them. I gave her the boxes with strict instructions and then I started for the door. Just as my hand was on the knob, she called to me."

"I remember her words with the most deleterious distinctness. 'Look here, Halstead,' she said in a low, throaty voice. 'I've a color. One of these days I may be coming for you on a hurried matter, and then I'll tell you what I've taken sick all of a sudden. Understand?'"

"I nodded. 'I felt I understood all too well. But I had no idea of the devilish scheme of that woman's imagination.'

"She smiled. 'If that ever happens, can you tell me what is expected of me? When you get here, you'll find somebody there sick. When you look on the floor, you'll find a pile of arms, remember, the scorpions. You'll need a needle in the blade. Do you understand?'"

"I do not know to this day how I stood there without crying out against such a fiendish, damnable plot. I was too dumb to do so, smiling, serene, beautiful. 'Understand?'"

"How is Master Pat, anyway?" she was first question to report. She was brimming over with wit and sarcasm, and a day will keep depression away," she said, "but be careful of the result."

"An easy way," she said. "Well, boys, I hear they're doing up the year instead of the 'Lovers'."

"And interlocking a day will keep depression away," she said, "but be careful of the result."

CRITIC FAVORS MONKEY AGAINST DICTATORS OF ETIQUETTE

By GILBERT SELDES

BETWEEN MRS. EMILY POST, commissary of etiquette in the American Social Society, and the gibbon, that man-like ape, I am on the side of the monkey. "The only thing that matters," says Mrs. Post, "is that you must not say, 'Pleased to meet you.' But the gibbon, according to Herr Georg Schwidetzky, says, 'Hok Hug Hag Nag Guggag,' which means 'I am very pleased to meet you.'"

The gibbon is not, perhaps, the most endearing of brute creation; he lacks advancement and doesn't know which fork to use; neither do his daughters know whether, in certain circumstances, they should ask the young man in. Gorillas and orang-outangs smile a superior smile when the gibbon tries to make his way into society. In his simple, friendly, Western way he breezes along with his Hok Hug and the rest of it; he is pleased to meet you and he says he is pleased to meet you. No false refinements for him; not even true refinement, I'm for him.

"Glad T've Seeya"

Or, to put it the other way, I can't discover the underlying reason for not saying "Pleased to meet you." Even if it runs down to "Pleasantmetcha," I can't see why it is so palpably inferior to "Frightfully glad, what?" or the other forms of acknowledging an introduction. It is a moderate statement, it does not exaggerate, and it is not too much. It is a moderate statement, it does not exaggerate, and it is not too much. It is a moderate statement, it does not exaggerate, and it is not too much.

"H'a'yer!" Don't Answer!

No one wants to know how you do, when they ask you in first meeting or any other meeting. "How do you do?" which is correct and polite, is false, and the way to prove it is to try, once, to answer the question literally, giving details of digestion, bank account, recent quarrels with wife or husband, handicap in golf, ingraving talent, and all the rest. "How do you do?" is a meaningless phrase, suggesting that the speaker is too busy to express pleasure in a meeting or too timid to express dislike.

All Wrong!

The answer of course, is that "the wrong people" say "Pleased to meet you." This error of the vulgar is the mark of a society not sure of itself. A good aristocrat will do a number of things because he belongs to a class which he admires and because all the other members of his class do the same thing; but he will never be afraid of doing something he considers right merely because a number of outcasts also do it. The wrong people, plebeian swiches, also do it, and a considerable number of them tip their hats when that procedure is indicated and fall in line. One of them wrote the greatest plays in our language and another some of our greatest poems. They may frighten Mrs. Post away from her pleasures, but they are good enough for my ancestor, the gibbon, is good enough for me.

Perhaps Mrs. Post wishes to suggest that in good society no one is genuinely pleased to meet anyone else, in that case why doesn't good society disband altogether?

YEGG SUSPECT DEATH WINS CAUGHT IN CHASE COOPER TANGLE

His red hair and flat nose brought arrest today for Hyman Weinberg, 32, of Bedford st., South End, as a holdup suspect—and after being fingerprinted in police headquarters, he made a vain attempt to escape.

The attempt at flight from the identification bureau where his prints had been taken was short-lived.

Profiting from previous attempts by other prisoners, Inspector George Smith, who, with Inspector Coleman Morrison of headquarters, is detaining Weinberg, remained in the outer room of the bureau, and when Weinberg came examining out, Inspector Smith tackled and floored him.

Weinberg, almost knocked out by his impact with the floor, got up weakly and was taken back into the inner room of the identification bureau, where he admitted that he had been given a check for $100,000 by a man who had been arrested for a holdup.

Weinberg was arrested at New York and Washington at South End because he matched the description given by clerks in the Bureau of Prisons, and was taken to the police station where he was held for several hundred dollars.

All the store clerks agreed that the holdup had been a flat nose and was a flat nose.

In the meantime, the man who had been arrested for a holdup was taken to the police station where he was held for several hundred dollars.

CHAPTER VIII

Revenge is an uncommon motive for child kidnapping and where it is practiced we may expect to find an unusual mind.

It is not to be overlooked in the Lindbergh case.

Fancied wrongs are oft-times more bitterly resented in warped brains than are real grievances.

There is a strange form of "vengeance" which takes a toll from entirely innocent persons. It might be called "class vengeance."

As an illustration, take the Wall Street bond pick, which was with out motive save in that it was a fatal gesture of retaliation of a Wall Street representative.

The perpetrators were crank fanatics, and it is not to be overlooked in the Lindbergh case.

Strange Hill Folk Invasion May Have Been Holy Banned

It was an absorbing "grit" in violent mood, it might result in an "object lesson" kidnapping.

Some persons believe the mountain dwelling neighbors of the Lindberghs resented the intrusion of their solitude and resorted to kidnapping either in revenge or to show the "intruders" that four-foot mountain was no place for them with their big house and their money and their fame.

Perhaps this is so. Among the mountain and wood dwellers in the vicinity of Hopewell are many queer personages, who thrive on privacy and secrecy, and who might resent an invasion of them. It has been printed that the Lindberghs will sell their four-foot mountain and the result of the kidnapping may have been its very object.

Not a few hold the theory that Japanese or Chinese plotted the crime, believing that Lindbergh's flight to the Far East was in the capacity of an agent for the United States government.

If we are to entertain such a theory at all, with revenge as motive, there is no particular reason except, perhaps, the working of the Oriental mind, why we should concentrate on Japanese and Chinese and exclude the Mexicans, the French, the Eskimos or the natives of any of the many other countries to which Lindbergh has flown.

There is one phase of this kidnapping which weakens the structure of any theoretical conclusion that revenge was the motive. It is that the kidnapping, striking through the baby's nativity, would take the form of harm to the baby and if the intention was to harm or destroy the baby it could have been carried out in the nursery by the invader who need not have subjected himself to the obvious danger of having custody of the child.

WAS THE KIDNAPING OF BABY LINDY THE ACT OF A PERSON SUPPORTING "A FANCIED WRONG?"

OR WAS IT A GESTURE OF RESENTMENT AGAINST ALL THAT THE LINDBERGHs REPRESENT?

Lindbergh Mystery

CHAPTER VIII

Revenge is an uncommon motive for child kidnapping and where it is practiced we may expect to find an unusual mind.

It is not to be overlooked in the Lindbergh case.

Fancied wrongs are oft-times more bitterly resented in warped brains than are real grievances.

There is a strange form of "vengeance" which takes a toll from entirely innocent persons. It might be called "class vengeance."

As an illustration, take the Wall Street bond pick, which was with out motive save in that it was a fatal gesture of retaliation of a Wall Street representative.

The perpetrators were crank fanatics, and it is not to be overlooked in the Lindbergh case.

WALL STREET SWAYED BY WASHINGTON

By B. C. FORBES

New York, March 25.—I have just finished a tour of Wall Street which included heart-to-heart talks with financial notables. Here's what's what:

Hopefulness, which had been rising encouragingly, has again given way to uneasiness. Why?

Congress Causing Concern

First, the reckless irresponsibility exhibited by Congress has produced a most disturbing and disillusioning effect. The statesmanship, the cooperation, the solemnity exhibited in the House, especially by the Democrats, were beginning to cause the financial world to conclude, "if a Democratic president should be elected, there is no need to become apprehensive. The Democrats are acting sensibly and are submitting to leadership and discipline."

Alas, the rebellion in the House, participated in alike by Democrats and Republicans, is worrying the financial community, especially as the substitutes offered for the sales tax are considered absurd and abusive.

Glass Bill Cautious Menace

Second, the reintroduction of the Glass bank bill is dismaying bankers and worrying brokers. When Senator Glass consented to have the truly constructive Glass-Steagall bill given preference over his original railing measure, the banking community concluded that no further legislative effort would be made to pass what they call "punitive," deflationary legislation. But Senator Glass is once more insisting upon forcing upon the country his multifarious banking changes. Bankers declare most emphatically and practically unanimously—that passage of the Glass bill would undo every constructive achievement already accomplished. They vehemently contend that this is not the time to throw a monkey wrench into the functioning of our banking system.

While they do not believe that the measure can possibly burden the House, the Senate and a conference committee, they are nevertheless acutely uneasy.

Sidestep Income Tax

Third, the proposed 65 per cent curtail on large incomes is interpreted not merely as Communistic in its motive but as a sower and a delusion from a revenue-raising standpoint. One of our most influential financiers, payer of a gigantic income tax, frankly said to me:

"A 72 per cent federal tax, combined with the State income tax, would mean handing over to the government three-fourths of my income. I know nobody who would be foolishly enough to put a million dollars into an enterprise were the government to claim three out of every four dollar of possible profit. I do know that with men would rather invest in tax-exempt securities and keep their income."

The proposal, from a practical point of view, is childish. Were the government to demand such exorbitant tax rates to make good substantial part of its deficit, it would find itself in a hole."

Business Fails to Rally

Fourth, the financial world is disappointed over the absence of definite trade or industrial improvement.

The hope had been cherished that the reassuring, helpful, fundamentally important, constructive work done by Washington would lead to betterment in business following the acknowledged betterment in banking conditions. Before businessmen had had a fair chance to exhibit returning confidence, Congress went off at a tangent, flouted recognized leaders, championed ill-considered legislation—and upset the whole apple cart.

That, at least, is how finance interprets recent events.

Fifth—And please understand that I am acting as a reporter of financial sentiment, not as a political partizan—the chances of Democratic victory in November are regarded as having been drastically reduced.

Wall Street at the moment is being swayed by Washington. (Copyright 1932, by B. C. Forbes)

Pennsylvania Payment Record Longest

Philadelphia, March 25 (AP).—The longest record in the world in the payment of cash dividends by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has paid $12,000,000 in dividends since 1914, was set today when the company paid its 1931 dividend of $1.00 per share, totaling $12,000,000, including the quarterly dividend paid last month.

Figures just compiled on the operations in 1931 also show that Pennsylvania stockholders have received a return on their investment in every calendar year since 1917, the longest unbroken dividend record among the railroads of the United States.

MELLON SEES NO DEBT CHANGE

Washington, March 25 (AP).—Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to Britain, told newspapermen today he had no "doubt" that there would be no change in the foreign debt situation.

Mellon was questioned by newspapermen in the chambers of the House Foreign Affairs committee, where the former Treasury secretary was received and conferred with the members of this group in his new capacity.

"You know as much about that as I do," was Mellon's quick response.

"I have no knowledge of any change in the situation and see no likelihood of any change at the present time," Mellon replied to another query.

Mellon was accompanied by David S. Bailey, who was his special assistant at the Treasury. The ambassador is expected to leave Washington Tuesday and sail from New York about April 1.

SO MANY young women write to me asking to get into the newspaper business that I am sure I can find a few who will be interested in the little things that go on in the newspaper world.

FELL INTO A JOB

Like other professional women she is usually married, sooner or later—and then, off and on from time to time.

Any girl who goes into a newspaper office prepared to "resist temptation" is going to have a really hard struggle it to find the "temptations."

And I am sure that the father of two or three

When a newspaper girl decides to get married, she takes an hour or so off—and the editor takes an hour or so off.

It is not a bad thing to have a wife and a child, but it is a bad thing to have a wife and a child who are both in the newspaper business.

The man who marries a newspaper girl is usually married, sooner or later—and then, off and on from time to time.

apartment just a few hours ago, but no conversation was increased (unless when I entered the room and saw the victim was Lorraine Carrow herself).

I was in a panic. There she lay, I looked at her arms. She had been bitten by the assassin. The mark was plainly there. In self-defense I said she had been bitten by the assassin. In self-defense I performed the task which she had taught me. I put the mouth into the hole, and then I turned it all over.

But who killed her? Who killed Christine Killebrew—the same deadly question? I do not know. But I am going to tell you what I know. After what I have done tonight—and the knowledge that I have done it—I will never again be the same.

I thought, the victim ended. There was no signature line for this. I had to be careful. I had to be careful. I had to be careful.

Everywhere new hats and gloves are to be seen. Sketched is a Gaby Mono model of paper panama in a lovely pale pastel-rose shade. The wider, flaring brim that turns up daintily at one side is a very becoming line that will be welcomed by the woman who shuns the trying, trimless models. The gloves are of fine white lace knit with borders of black patent leather and the ribs stitched in black silk to the Blackwater model.

Daily True Story

A Cup of Coffee

"LOOK AT THOSE AUTOS going by and not one of 'em stopping. Why can't some of them stop here and at least get a hot dog and a cup of coffee, Nod? Instead they just go on and they find a 'Gassy' looking place."

Mary Lee stood on the time of the Waverley Tea Room. She was a young woman, and she was looking at the cars that were passing by.

"You see, Nod," she said, "I'm a 'Gassy' looking place. I'm a 'Gassy' looking place. I'm a 'Gassy' looking place."

"You see, Nod," she said, "I'm a 'Gassy' looking place. I'm a 'Gassy' looking place. I'm a 'Gassy' looking place."

GEORGE WINS:

GOLF 'PURES' PERILED

FAMED TRIO'S STATUS IN DANGER

By LESTER RICE
New York, March 25 (US)—Clouds which for years have been threatening to pour their wrath upon the heads of golfers who persisted in violating the amateur code have at last burst. The deluge, which may engulf at least three amateurs of national reputation, is to be accompanied by rolls of thunder that will reverberate throughout all bunkerland.

The storm will be provoked by the Metropolitan Golf Association with its parent body, the United States Golf Association, applying the spurs.

A forerunner of the cloudburst was the announcement today by Mason R. Starring, secretary of the M. G. A., that the association has appointed a "conduct and standing committee," composed of Livingston Pratt, Starring and Blaney Bender, its president.

The idea of a general spring house cleaning was something that had been buzzing around in the bosom of the U. S. G. A. for a long time.

Miller-Jones, Held and Perkins in Danger

It is believed that the U. S. G. A. points its finger at three men under suspicion of having violated the amateur code.

As soon as the committee feels in the spirit of functioning, it is expected to summon all members. Held, former holder of the Canadian and trans-Atlantic championships; Pennington Miller-Jones, former holder of the Westchester and New York State amateur titles, and Phil Perkins, 1928, and ask them to show cause why they should not be shorn of their amateur status.

House cleaning this spring is not to be confined to the members of the district. All those affiliates of the U. S. G. A. who have no conduct and standing committees have been urged to appoint one immediately to apply the proper cleaner to their local organizations.

LES CANADIENS BEAT RANGERS

Montreal, March 25 (INS)—The advantage that goes with drawing first blood rested with Les Canadiens of Montreal today in their first three-out-of-five series with the New York Rangers—the first place playoff for the National Hockey League championship.

Before a capacity crowd of 11,000 wild-eyed fans, the Plying Frenchmen flashed a consistently steady back to score a 4-0-0 victory over the New Yorkers at the Forum last night in the opening frame. The series will be resumed here tomorrow night, with the teams moving to New York for the third game on Sunday.

The Rangers came from behind to tie the score in the first period and again in the second. Two goals in the third period clinched victory for the home team, however, although the visitors scored another tally three minutes before the end. The Frenchmen kept the puck in New York territory most of the time.

Johnny Gagnon starred for Les Canadiens, scoring one goal and assisting in another.

On defense, Sylvio Mantha and Marty Burke repeatedly broke up the New York attack, although the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, got past them for three scores.

Phar Lap Taken to California

Menlo Park, Cal., March 25 (Phar Lap, Australian wonder horse, has arrived here in a motor car after a 500-mile trip from the Agua Caliente, Mex., race track, where he won the $25,000 handicap Sunday.

It is probable that the horse will run in a proposed special race for a $25,000 purse at the Tanforan race track near San Francisco on April 30.

Hall Takes Lead in Billiard Match

Chicago, March 25 (INS)—After trailing through six blocks of the 15-block, 600-point, three-cushion billiard match, Allen Hill jumped into the lead over Austin Kleckner today.

Hill won the seventh and eighth blocks yesterday, 59 to 50 in 59 innings, and 85 to 41 in 59 innings. Hill now leads the wonder champion, 450 to 391, in 233 innings.

Extend St. John's Park Meeting

St. John's Park, Fla., March 25 (INS)—The race meeting here will be continued until next Thursday instead of closing tomorrow. This was decided today at a meeting between officials of the racing association and horsemen, who had agreed to a reduction in purses to $600.

Priest Proves Great Scout for Red Sox

By JOE CASSEMAN
Savannah, Ga., March 25—If John "Lefty" Michaels makes the grade with the Red Sox, and it looks very much as though he would, President Bob Quinn will owe many thanks and a few apologies to the Rt. Rev. John Healy, O. P., most faithful and ardent of the club's royal rosters.

For it was the good Father, now spending his vacation at the Sox training camp, who recommended Michaels. And before he could convince the Fenway "press" that the young southpaw was worth acquiring, he had to do far more talking in his spare moments than he did while attending to his tasks as a preacher general of the Dominican Order.

The priest, while giving a mission in Buffalo last spring, dropped in to the ball park one afternoon to see a game. Laid in the contest with three of the enemy on the sacks, the Bisons routed in Michaels, who pulled them out of the hole without allowing a run.

Worker Healy Liked

For Michaels

"There is the left-hander my good friend Bob Quinn has long been seeking," decided the clergyman, and he promptly wired to Fenway Park advising that Michaels be purchased.

Schoolboy Slants

By GEORGE W. GRIMM—

Four regular football games will be played this spring, two on April 15.

It looks as if Bill Broderick started something when Salem high team played Revere high a few years back.

Everett high scheduled a game with Newburyport high for April 15. Last year Newburyport stacked up against Peabody high. Del Borah, coach of former eleven, always has his boys in condition for the game with Everett should be well worth watching.

Salem high this year tackles two teams, Leominster high, on April 15, and Marblehead high, on April 15.

Bob Feeley, star athlete at Peabody high, has been elected captain of this year's baseball team and will have the honor of leading the team the first year in the Essex County League. He has played throughout most of the time for the past two years and also starred as football and basketball.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

Chemical warfare experts say our nation is perfectly safe from attack by gas. It's not the attacks that bother us so much as what those responsible do after they're "gassed."

And a reformer is a guy who wants to change everything but his arguments.

Rebukes who say for a simple man that my job is simple.

BULL-ONEY
(Quoting one of the House Fathers)

"Adverse criticism of plays is responsible more than any other factor for the fact that four out of five legitimate dramas are financial failures." — Representative Stravich, chairman, who has written a play.

Little Willie, radio chatter. Cursed Pops death a little sooner. "All's well." Ma told Pops donors. "He had permission of the copyright owners." — J. C. H. H. H.

Well, Well, Well Dept.
(One True Point)

The idea that America is a place where each man may do as he likes is a silly notion, the Rev. Dr. Franz Warfield Crowder, pastor of St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, said yesterday.

"About the easiest way to get free speech," he asserted, "is to arrest a G. O. P. operative, the kitchen cymic, 'to provide free beer.'"

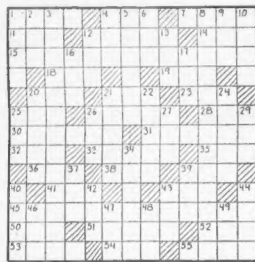

Our Japanese poet, T. S. Nakano, is at it again.

MIDDLE NIGHT VIEW
There were deep middle night river stars still twinkling light crescent moon set down west sky. Frequently broken night it's sharp-train whistles. Oh! these are pure middle night view.
